TWS Future of Education

TWS Student Handbook

Greetings TWS Community,

It's that time of the year again. Bricks is on this weekend and we are all excited to see the amazing displays. The P&C have been busy putting together what I am sure will be one the best events to date. New additions this year include Bhutanese dumplings (Momo's), more snack options and brand new LEGO displays. If you are looking for something to do on the weekend make sure you check out Bricks at TWS.

This term our students are learning where we live in our cross curricular concept - Place. Teachers have been busy planning engaging learning opportunities in the classroom and out in the community so that students can explore their local community. This is also the theme for this year's LEGO competition which has some great prizes, so make sure you are supporting your child's build.

I want to take this opportunity to share with you that we will be trialling a split timetable for the remainder of this term. This means that college students will have their breaks at a different time to the high school. With a growing population, this is an effort to see if we can further improve student safety and wellbeing. I will keep you posted as to how this is going.

I would also like to take this opportunity to congratulate Ms Tshering Lhamo, who has worked at TWS for several years as an LSA. Tshering has successfully gained her Teacher Accreditation and will be joining the teacher ranks at TWS very soon.

Lots of action in the Library this week with an amazing author visit on Monday and the national simultaneous book reading happening across the school on Wednesday. We also held a "Sorry Day gathering. Thanks Norma, and our cultural integrity committee for all that you do.

As always, if you would like to know more about anything about education, please do not hesitate to contact me directly.

Yours Sincerely,

Are you feeling stressed, worried, sad, lonely or anxious?

You are not alone. This pandemic has been a very troubling and worrying time for everyone. We'd like to show you some online resources you can access if you are feeling any of these emotions.

Please access these, with the support of a parent or carer if needed, if you need some information, tips, and tricks to help you ease some of the discomfort caused by experiencing these (very normal) difficult emotions.

IMPORTANT NOTICES

Last Day For Year 10, 11 and 12 Student's 2025

Friday 5th of December

Parent Car Pick ups:

Are to occur AFTER 3pm please, unless otherwise organised with the front office. This is so buses have time to be loaded and cleared to allow for a safe transition home. Please do not leave your car. Pull up along the front apron and your young person will be called.

Please notify school office of any absences before 9.30am.

No student will be transitioned across the car park.

IMPORTANT NOTICES

Insurance and Ambulance Transport

The ACT Education Directorate does not provide any insurance cover for injury, disease or illness to students resulting from school activities or school-organised excursions. Claims for compensation are met where there is a legal liability to do so. Liability is not automaticity and depends on the circumstances in which any injury, disease or illness was sustained.

As there is no automatic insurance cover for personal injury if your child is injured at school or during a school-organised activity/excursion you should therefore consider whether taking out personal insurance cover for your child is warranted.

This insurance might cover constancies including medical/hospital expenses, ambulance transport outside the ACT, and cancellation of transport/accommodation or loss of/damage to luggage.

The ACT Ambulance Service provides free ambulance transport for students who are injured or suddenly become ill at school or during an approved school organised activity within the ACT.

Attention Parents/Carers of Students with Medical Conditions.

It is essential that we maintain accurate and up to date information on all medical conditions. If at anytime the health care needs of your young adult changes, please notify the front office.

It is your Responsibility to update general Medical Information and Consent forms and other medical condition treatment plans yearly. Thank you

Privacy Notice—School Accidents/ Incidents

The Woden School collects information about Injuries and incidents which occur at the school or on school-organised activities, on behalf on the ACT Education Directorate. Some of the Information may be personal information as defined in the Information Privacy Act 2014 and the Health Records (Privacy and Access) Act 1997. The information is usually included in a Student Accident/Incident Report or Notification of a Critical Incident together with any Accompanying witness statements.

The purpose for which the information is collected include notifying the Territory's insurances and legal advisers of injuries and incidents and ensuring that the school itself has accurate and complete records. The Directorate unusually provides the form and any other information relevant to the accident/incident to the ACT Insurance Authority and the ACT Government Solicitor. Information may also be provided to WorkSafe ACT in accordance with ACT Work Health and Safety Act 2011

Schools have a duty of care to keep students safe. Where an injury or incident occurs schools have an obligation to determine what has happened and therefore question students. Schools may also ask students to make statements in writing and sign these statements.

So you want to be an apprentice or trainee?

If you want to give your career a kick start, an apprenticeship or traineeship is a great way to fast track your career and earn while you learn. Apprenticeships and traineeships are not just for school leavers though! Whether you're returning to the workforce, changing your profession or just looking to formalise your skills, anyone can benefit from becoming an apprentice or trainee.

What are the benefits of becoming an apprentice or trainee?

As an apprentice or trainee, you'll combine on-the-job experience with structured and competency-based training that equips you with a range of practical skills.

Benefits include:

- Choosing from a wide range of qualifications across all industries
- Earning a wage while you learn
- Combining on-the-job and classroom training with a Registered Training Organisation (RTO)
- Gaining practical and valuable experience to set you up for success after you qualify
- Potential eligibility for access to government financial support

What's the difference between an apprenticeship and a traineeship?

Apprenticeships	Traineeships
How long does an apprenticeship take? Between 36 to 48 months depending on the qualification.	How long does a traineeship take? Between 12 and 24 months depending on the qualification.
Which industries offer apprenticeships? Trade areas (including building and construction), commercial cookery, automotive, engineering, manufacturing and more.	Which industries offer traineeships? Service industries such as business, retail, community health, childcare, hair and beauty, financial services and more.

Meet your local apprenticeship experts

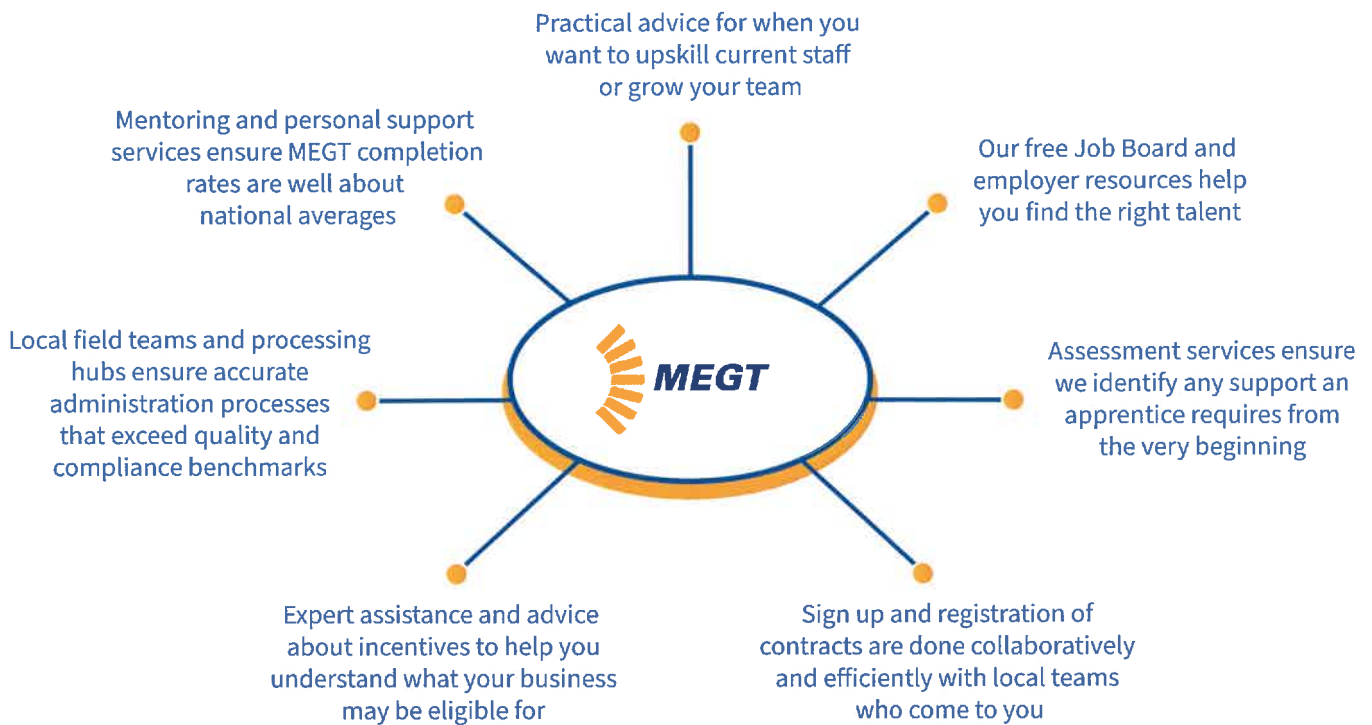

As part of the Australian Government's commitment to developing a highly skilled nation, Apprentice Connect Providers have been appointed across the country to support employers, apprentices and trainees.

As Australia's largest single Apprentice Connect Provider, MEGT has helped over 700,000 apprentices complete their qualifications and 450,000+ businesses strengthen their workforce. Our experience, expertise and commitment to local communities is what helps create the MEGT difference.

Making apprenticeships easy

Whether you choose to upskill existing staff or take on a new apprentice or trainee, your business will benefit from the skills and increased productivity that formal training adds to the workplace.

From sign up to completion, MEGT provide wraparound services to help your workforce thrive.

Mentoring and Personal Support Services

Balancing work, training and your personal life can be tricky sometimes, especially for new apprentices or trainees as they settle into a different routine and environment.

That's why MEGT provides a range of tools and resources to help apprentices and trainees thrive, with a team of qualified mentors to help navigate any challenges and setbacks faced when completing an apprenticeship or traineeship.

Services tailored to your needs

When you sign up with MEGT, you get access to an entire team of apprenticeship and traineeship experts who are here to support you!

Our tiered support services include:

- Resources to help apprentices, trainees and employers navigate common challenges
- Expert assistance and advice to help resolve short-term setbacks
- One-on-one mentoring support
- Connections and referrals to specialist support services if needed

Confidential mentoring and guidance

Did you know that apprentices and trainees with access to the support of a qualified mentor have a higher chance of completing their qualifications?

MEGT's mentors are specifically trained to work with apprentices and trainees through a wide range of work, training and personal challenges. They act as a confidant and a sounding board, providing advice and feedback where needed and giving apprentices and trainees the best possible chance of completing their qualifications.

Apprentices and trainees who are eligible for free mentoring support include, but are not limited to:

- Women in Male-Dominated Trades
- First Nations Australian Apprentices
- Australian Apprentices with disability
- Australian Apprentices located in Remote Australia

Expo brings together hundreds of career pathways

The Canberra CareersXpo is back for another year, with a huge variety of inspiring possibilities. The CareersXpo will be held on August 7 and 8 at Exhibition Park In Canberra (EPIC).

The CareersXpo showcases the abundance of careers and jobs available in 2024 and is open to school students, adults already in the workforce or anyone with an interest in seeking a new career path.

Every career question answered

The Canberra CareersXpo is the largest careers and jobs event in the region, with more than 110 local and interstate exhibitors ready to answer questions about jobs, courses and traineeships, says manager Winston Bucknall.

"We have many impressive interactive displays and gadgetry this year, giving our attendees the opportunity to experience some of the technology they might be working on in the future," he says.

"We are very happy to have two speakers this year; Prof Genevieve Bell and Dr Brad Tucker.

"Genevieve is the vice-chancellor of the Australian National University and is well known here and overseas for her work in the cultural effects of technology.

"We also welcome Dr Brad Tucker, an astro-physicist and cosmologist, who will be relating astronomical stories about the intriguing aspects of the politicisation of the space race and about his research into planet 9."

Winston says the Indigenous Employment Exhibition is returning, as are numerous businesses, government agencies and community organisations.

The CareersXpo is open 9.30am to 2.30pm August 7 to 8. The speakers and seminars will be held on Wednesday evening, 4pm-7pm and attendance is free to both the day and the night sessions.

Learn about portable long service leave

Young people and their parents will have the opportunity to learn about portable long service leave when ACT Leave exhibits at the CareersXpo for the first time, says CEO and registrar Tracy Savage.

Operating under ACT government legislation, Tracy says ACT Leave supports workers in covered industries to receive the valuable benefits of portable long service leave entitlements.

Currently, workers in the security, community sector, building and construction, and contract-cleaning industries are entitled to portable long service leave in the ACT, she says.

When the Services Industry Scheme begins in April, Tracy says workers in the accommodation, food services, and hairdressing and beauty services will become eligible.

She says the expansion of portable long service is especially good news for young people, as it offers them the opportunity to establish themselves within the industry and to gain experience while working towards earning a portable long service leave break.

Tracy says she expects that ACT Leave's attendance at the CareersXpo will be a great way for those at the beginning of their careers, and their parents, to find out more about their working rights.

"Parents play a really important role in managing, organising and supporting their child's employment arrangements," she says.

"The Xpo is an excellent opportunity for us to reach existing and future workers and provide them and their parents with information about accessing portable long service leave."

Visit the friendly ACT Leave staff in Booth 55, Tracy says.

Leisure manager offering flexible employment

Belgravia Leisure is a leisure management provider for numerous aquatic, fitness, sport, holiday parks, spas and wellness venues across Australia, and ACT marketing co-ordinator Tanay Kandlur says they are looking for more Canberra-based team members.

He says there is a wide range of roles available, including sales or duty managers, but in particular, they are looking for lifeguards, swimming teachers and fitness trainers.

Tanay says hours are flexible, which makes it a perfect option for school students, recent graduates or university students, and any training required is provided by Belgravia Leisure.

Tanay says Belgravia Leisure prides itself on providing employees with access to an extensive range of career options, and opportunities for career progression, with the opportunity to make a difference in the community.

"At Belgravia Leisure, we believe in the power of our people in connecting our communities to leisure," he says.

"We care about our people and greatly value diversity. We encourage people from all backgrounds to find a career with us."

Tanay says employees can also enjoy free membership and free facility access.

Supporting autism-spectrum students into work

Employ For Ability opened in 2019 to support people who are on the autism spectrum and transitioning into work, says managing director David Smith.

"We are promoting our School Leavers Employment Support Program for students on the autism spectrum with an NDIS plan that is self managed or plan managed," he says.

"Eighty per cent of our school-leaver clients gain award-wage work within 12 months of commencing our programs.

"Ninety-five per cent are still employed 12 months after gaining employment. We are a specialist in neurodiversity, so we have tailored courses that are holistic, looking at the whole person.

"We offer training as well as social group programs, including time management training, finance skills, employment pursuit, and work-ready programs.

"We also run social groups, as well as Dungeons and Dragons, chess and a garden group."

David says he did not realise it at the time, but his journey began when his third child, Ollie, was born.

"Annie and I knew he was different, he was diagnosed with autism at four, and we went through a roller coaster of emotions," he says.

"As a family we have grown to understand autism and to see the strengths Ollie has, his delightful attitude, his sense of equality and justice. He is a

A welcoming place for young women

At The Women's College, located within The University of Sydney, young women are supported every step of the way throughout their university days, both academically and socially as well as into their careers, says The Women's College registrar, Anne-Maree McCarthy.

"Join a fully supported network of women in your transition to university and enjoy fully catered accommodation, social and extracurricular activities with opportunities for academic assistance, tutorial assistance, mentoring and leadership opportunities," she says.

About 280 residents and 50 affiliate (non-resident) students enjoy a dynamic and vibrant experience of university life, says Anne-Maree, while academic assistants and tutors provide advice on time management, exam study and assistance with course content. "It's a welcoming place, a home away from home," she says.

Anne-Maree says the college offers scholarships for residential students awarded on the basis of academic merit and financial need to support students coming from regional and rural areas as well as to students from government schools, Torres Strait Islander backgrounds, postgraduate students undertaking medicine or scientific research and students studying performance at the Conservatorium of Music.

Anne-Maree says applications for 2025 are now open, and scholarship applications close on October 1.

She says the college accepts students studying at The University of Sydney, UTS, The University of Notre Dame (Sydney campus), ACU, UNSW and Macquarie University.

"There is no need to wait for your university offer to start your application. Apply now," she says.

ACT Chief Allied Health officer Dr Sue Fitzpatrick and senior director Marisa Bialowas will be at the CareersXpo on August 7 and 8.

Healthcare has a role for everyone

ACT Health oversees the ACT's public health system, and makes sure it meets the community's needs, says ACT chief allied health officer Dr Sue Fitzpatrick.

This year, she says ACT Health will once again be at the CareersXpo to answer any healthcare career questions.

"We offer many career opportunities for people looking for challenging work in a professional and quality healthcare environment," she says.

"Our community has experienced some massive changes over the past few years, but we're so happy to be out and about chatting to people about careers in health and the difference these careers can make in their lives."

Sue says the CareersXpo is an opportunity for students and people looking for a career change to chat to people working in a variety of roles across the health system.

"Whether you like working behind the scenes or love face-to-face interactions with our community, there's a job in health to suit you," she says.

"You can work in a variety of environments ranging from government policy and programs, to hospitals, owning your own private practice, pharmacies, pathology centres, labs, community organisations and not-for-profit organisations."

Many people aren't aware a university degree is not necessary to get into a career in health, says Sue, and there's a range of jobs you can do from aged and disability care to oral health and allied health assisting offered by TAFE and CIT.

"Come and chat to the team from ACT Health," says Sue. "We'll point you in the right direction on the next steps to take."
